Case Management Statement.

1. Jurisdiction and Service.

This Court has subject matter jurisdiction over Microsoft's claims for copyright infringement pursuant to 17 U.S.C. § 501 and 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1338(a), and venue is proper in the Northern District of California pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1391(b) and 1400(a). Defendants Intrax Group, Inc. d/b/a Surplus Computers and Michael Mak conduct business and reside in the Northern District in Santa Clara County and were both served on April 24, 2007. All parties currently known to Microsoft have been served.

2. Facts.

a. Factual Chronology: Microsoft alleges as follows: On April 10, 2006, a Microsoft investigator ordered what was advertised as one unit of Microsoft Office 2003 Standard, through www.surpluscomputers.com which, upon information and belief, is Defendants' web site. Defendants contend that they advertised the software accurately as Microsoft Office Student Media. Microsoft alleges that it examined the software and determined that it infringed its copyrights because it was Microsoft Student Media software ("Student Media"), which the Defendants were not authorized to use or distribute, and which Microsoft believes was unlawfully imported to the United States and/or distributed in interstate commerce by the John Doe Defendants. Subsequent purchases by Microsoft investigators through the same web site on September 26, 2006 (one unit each of Microsoft Windows XP Professional and Office 2003 Professional) and November 3, 2006 (one unit Windows XP Professional) also proved to be infringing Student Media which had been manufactured outside the United States and was not licensed for distribution in the United States. On January 3, 2007, Microsoft delivered a letter by Federal Express to Defendants, demanding that they cease and desist all infringing activity or risk legal action. Despite this warning, it was determined through purchases by Microsoft investigators on January 11, 2007 (one unit each of Microsoft Windows XP Professional and Office 2003 Professional) and March 6, 2007 (three units of Microsoft Office 2003 Professional) that Defendants were continuing their distribution of Student Media through use of the web site www.surpluscomputers.com, thereby infringing Microsoft's copyrights.

Principal factual issues in dispute: Microsoft contends that the Defendants b. imported to the United States Microsoft software, including but not limited to, Windows XP and Office 2003, and other software and components covered by Microsoft's registered copyrights and bearing Microsoft's registered trademarks, and/or distributed in the United States that software, without approval or authorization from Microsoft. Defendants have denied these allegations.

3. Legal Issues.

(1) Whether Defendants infringed Microsoft's registered copyrights by importing and/or distributing Microsoft software and components, without approval or authorization from Microsoft, in violation of 17 U.S.C. §§ 501, 602; (2) whether Defendants' actions were willful, as defined by 17 U.S.C. § 504(c)(2); and (3) the treatment of software under the First Sale Doctrine.

4. Motions.

There are no previous or pending motions in this matter.

5. Amendment of Pleadings.

The parties do not currently expect to amend any parties, claims, or defenses, but reserve their right to do so. The parties propose a deadline of February 5, 2008, for amending the pleadings.

6. Evidence Preservation.

Microsoft requests that Defendants preserve any and all Microsoft Student Media software in their possession; copies of all business records, invoices, billing statements. orders and shipping records relating to their sales and purchases of any Microsoft software products; records containing contact information for the companies and/or individuals from whom they acquired any Microsoft software for resale, including addresses, telephone numbers, email addresses and website addresses; and copies of any correspondence, email or otherwise, relating to any Microsoft software or products they have acquired and/or distributed.

Defendants ask that Microsoft preserve all documents relating to the subject product, all documents relating to third parties that were in the chain of distribution of the subject product from publisher to end user, and all documents relating to the production, shipment, sale or licensing of the subject product. This includes all contracts (including but not limited to licensing agreements), correspondence of any sort, phone records, shipping records, and any other materials, including both hard copy and electronic copies. Defendants also ask that Microsoft preserve all documents relating to the licensing or distribution of Student Media, and academic version software, including all materials provided to potential or actual distributors and all documents relating to Microsoft's policies regarding sales and distribution of student media, academic version software, and similar types of product sold by Microsoft.

7. Disclosures.

The parties have agreed to exchange their initial disclosures pursuant to the requirements of Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(a) by August 17, 2007.

Plaintiff Microsoft will disclose (i) the names and relevant information regarding known fact witnesses, (ii) evidence relevant to its case (copyright and trademark registrations, copies of web pages from www.surpluscomputers.com, infringing Student Media distributed by Defendants in Microsoft's possession, and the invoices for the infringing Student Media acquired by Microsoft's investigators), and (iii) the applicable damages and statutory references thereto.

26

Intrax will disclose the names and contact information for its suppliers of the subject product.

Document 22

8. Discovery.

Initial Disclosures, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(a)(1), will be exchanged by the parties as noted in Paragraph 7 above. No other discovery has been conducted to date.

The parties do not currently anticipate the need for modifications to the limitations on discovery imposed under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and the Local Civil Rules. The parties, however, reserve their right to request modification or limitations on discovery as this case proceeds.

The parties have agreed on a proposed discovery plan as set forth in their accompanying Rule 26(f) Report of Meeting.

9. Class Actions.

Not applicable.

10. Related Cases.

Not applicable.

11. Relief.

- Damages: Microsoft contends that it is entitled to recover actual damages. which include its losses and all profits Defendants have made as a result of their wrongful conduct, pursuant to 17 U.S.C. § 504(b). Alternatively, Microsoft contends that it is entitled to statutory damages pursuant to 17 U.S.C. § 504(c). In addition, Microsoft contends that because Defendants' infringement has been willful within the meaning of the Copyright Act, the award of statutory damages should be enhanced pursuant to 17 U.S.C. § 504(c)(2).
- b. Bases for damage calculation: Microsoft contends that actual damages should be calculated based on the (i) lost sales and foregone profits to Microsoft caused by Defendants' infringing conduct, (ii) internal costs to Microsoft of investigating Defendants' infringing conduct, and (iii) profits directly attributable to Defendants' sales of Student Media software. Statutory damages will be calculated based on the number of Microsoft copyright infringements, with each copyright infringement assessed at no less than $750 and no more than $30,000, for non-willful infringements, and no more than $150,000 each for willful infringement.

- c. Accounting: Microsoft will seek an order, pursuant to 17 U.S.C. § 504, requiring Defendants to provide Microsoft a full and complete accounting of all profits received by Defendants from their distribution or sale of infringing Microsoft software and/or materials, and of any other amounts due and owing to Microsoft as a result of Defendants' illegal activities.
- d. Injunctive Relief: Microsoft will seek a preliminary and permanent injunctive relief pursuant to 17 U.S.C. § 502 to prohibit Defendants from continuing their infringing conduct.
- e. Impoundment Order: Microsoft will seek an order, pursuant to 17 U.S.C. §§ 503(a) and 509(a) and 28 U.S.C. § 1651(a), impounding all infringing Microsoft software and/or materials, or any Microsoft documentation or packaging, and any related items, including business records, that are in Defendants' possession or under their control, and ordering the return, remedial destruction, or other appropriate disposition of all impounded items.
- f. Constructive Trust: Microsoft will seek an order, pursuant 17 U.S.C. § 504(b) declaring that Defendants hold in trust, as constructive trustees for the benefit of Microsoft, all "profits" received by Defendants from their importation, distribution or sale of infringing Microsoft software and/or materials, and issue temporary, preliminary and permanent injunctive relief enjoining and restraining Defendants and their agents from transferring, concealing or dissipating all profits and assets acquired in whole or in part with those profits.

1		g. Attorney's Fees/Costs : Microsoft will also seek to recover its attorney's
2	fees and costs of suit pursuant to 17 U.S.C. § 505.
3	12.	Settlement and Alternative Dispute Resolution.
4		The parties are currently exploring possible settlement options and have elected
5	Media	Mediation (ADR L.R. 6) as their ADR process. The ADR plan was previously filed in
6	accord	accordance with the Court's scheduling order. Microsoft will need to review Defendants'
7	initial	disclosures, and may need to depose the individual defendants in order to be in a
8	positi	on to negotiate a resolution.
9	13.	Consent to Magistrate Judge for All Purposes.
10		The parties do not consent to having a magistrate judge conduct trial and enter
11	judgm	judgment. The parties will consent to a referral to a magistrate judge for general case
